write an e-mail to a friend telling him about your new job:

Great to hear from you. I've got a job! I am working at United Group in my town. In the mornings I usually register the customer's name who visit the company and answer their questions and show them where to go. In the afternoon I help in the gift shop inside the group. I am always busy. So far, I am really enjoying the job. You do not need a lot of experience, but you have to be cheerful and deal correctly with people.

Anyway, that's all for now. Write back soon.

Love,

Tom.

Describe an event in the past:

A very long time ago, there was an English queen called Marry. She was the heir of the English crown. Queen Elizabeth the first hated her because she wanted her son to be the heir of the English crown. She imprisoned Queen Marry in a castle and then she executed her. Queen Marry had a son, James I. when he grew up, he became the heir to the English crown. Queen Elizabeth died and James I became the first king to England and Scotland. Since that day England and Scotland have always had the same king or queen.

Write a paragraph about

How did people use to live in your country 100 years ago?

Life in Bahrain these days is different to a great extent, when compared to how Bahrainis used to live 100 years ago. In those days, children used to play in the streets, but they did not use to watch TV. People used to write letters, but they did not use to send e-mails to one another. In addition, people used to travel by ship, but they did not use to travel by plane. Poor people didn't use to do any sport, but they used to work long hours.

Write an email describing a festival

Dear Hassan,

How are you? I hope your exams went well. I have finished mine. I'm at the National Day carnival in Manama. It's really amazing. The streets are crowded, so the atmosphere is lively. It is said more 20,000 people come to the carnival every year. You can also try traditional Bahraini food at the carnival.

Visit me in December, and maybe we can go together.

Write soon

Regards

Ahmed
